Delicately applying paper mache to senior Jorena DiMare's face, junior Natalie Manyo works diligently on her Art project.

Flanked by senior football captains Justin Severino and Chuck Brown, Katie Ketchum is crowned Homecoming Queen at Wenner Field.

Take a look...

This is Harbor High.

It is the building located at 221 Lake Avenue that has been a center of education in Ashtabula for over 100 years. It is a place where students learn and prepare for the future.

Now take a closer look...

It is a center of social activity brimming with opportunities for interaction and involvement in various clubs and activities. It is a source of pride and spirit, where athletes can compete and spectators can cheer them on to victory. It is a mecca of people, all different in their own special way.

It is truly “More than meets the eye”!

After a Mariner Volleyball game, students crowd around to show their support.

Eye to Eye

The days of Harbor students did not end at 2:30. Student life ranged from after-school activities to sporting events, attending a school play, shopping sprees at the Ashtabula Mall, showing your support at a football game, and hanging out with your friends. Senior Ryan Sweesy says "On the weekends, I work and hang out with my friends."

Pep Assemblies are also a part of student life. At the Homecoming pep assembly, the senior football players dressed up as Harvey's Homecoming court and gave the whole school a laugh. Sophomore Natasha Barnes stated "After school, I watch T.V. and talk on the telephone." Obviously, studying was not all that went on at Harbor High.

As you can see, it's more than meets the eye!

Look At Me!

Independence. More and more these days, people are trying to express themselves. How they want to dress is a very important factor. That is where independence comes in. Being who you want to be and being yourself we have found to be the fad. People have found many different ways to express themselves. Liprings and belly button rings have come in to play this year. Piercing your body seems to be the thing to do. Various nailpolishes for guys and girls are also very popular this year, especially in wild colors, glow-in-the-dark and perfume scented. Senior Courtney Campbell stated, "pastels and other unique colors were really 'in', and being creative is the key." People share alike interests in fashions also. Adidas is one of the main get-ups, as well as brand name shirts such as Tommy Hilfiger and Calvin Klein. No matter which way you put it, fads and fashions are what YOU make of them.

—Crystal Steel & Steve Altonen

Junior Jeremy Norris exposes his true identity while wearing the newest trend, a chain around the neck.

Senior Liz Bollman shows off her six pack and the most painful but freshest look, a trendy belly button ring.

Wearing a Carhartt jacket and wide-legged Jnco pants, senior Jason Tobias has style written all over his face.

Carousel

The Harbor High Thespians and Choir, after weeks of rehearsal, presented "Carousel" March 6, 7, and 8.

The story took place in a Maine coastal town and began with the townspeople enjoying the arrival of a carnival. Local girl Julie Jordan (Michelle Ocilka) became intrigued with carousel barker Billy Bigelow (Chris Stroup). Despite the efforts of her good friend Carrie Pipperidge (Kristy Jossion) to dissuade her from becoming involved with a mysterious drifter, Julie and Billy were married. Carrie, meanwhile, fell in love with the ambitious and kind Mr. Enoch Snow (David Overbey). Unemployed and desperate for money, Billy and Jigger Craigin (Mike Bean) planned a robbery scheme. When they were caught, Billy took his own life. Billy woke up in Heaven fifteen years later and was offered the chance to return to earth to see the daughter that he never knew. He found Louise (Heather Felt) to be a sad and lonely child. The visit revealed to Billy that what both Lousie and Julie needed most was his presence and love. He seemed to be able to "communicate" to both that he would always be there for them in spirit.

Applying a coat of pink lipstick, senior Amy McClintic prepares to perform in the play as her alter-ego, Mrs. Mullen.

Gazing at the bright lights and many sights of the carnival, the Bascome family (Josh Chorba, Sandi Werman, and Katie Mullen) enjoy the fair.

Once again in "hot water", the air-headed Carrie Pipperidge (Kristy Jossion) is carried away by the devious Jigger Craigin (Mike Bean).

Displaying their unity and togetherness, the women of "Carousel" squeeze together for a pre-show picture.

In a moment of contentment, Carrie Pipperidge (Kristy Josson) and Enoch Snow (David Overbey) dream about a happy marriage, a prosperous business, and a large family.

Three's not a crowd for dancers Heather Felt and Tessa White and townspeople Kelly Hackathorn, who give each other hugs and good luck wishes prior to taking the stage.

Busy running light cues before the show, "techies" Tysa Egelton and Lauren Sposito look over notes with a flashlight in hand.

Embracing in front of cousin Nettie Fowler's (Marjorie Benjamin) cottage, Billy Bigelow (Chris Stroup) and Julie Jordan (Michelle Ocilka) look into each other's eyes lovingly.

Patently waiting as her makeup is applied, senior Angie Weir, dressed in a rainbow wig, prepares to make her debut on the Harbor stage as a carnival clown.

Harbor's thespians perform a scene from "Carousel".

Dancing in the middle of the crowd, Marcel Alexander and Mr. Powell entertain everyone at Homecoming.

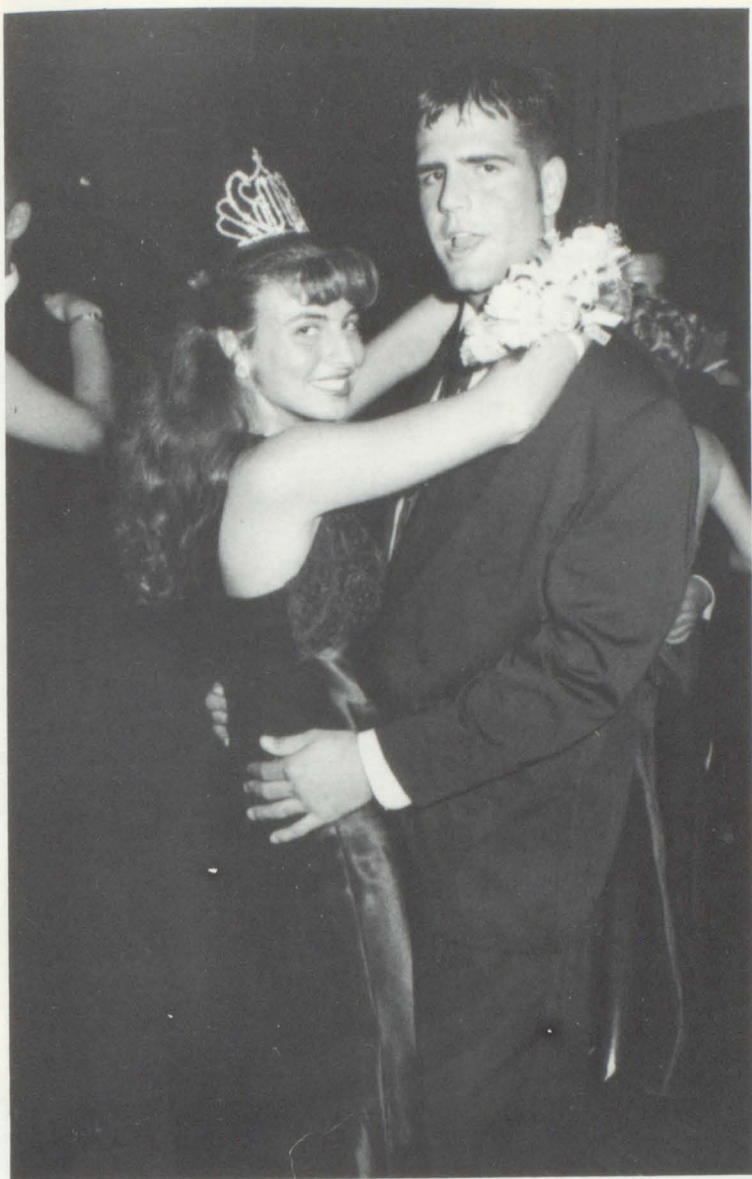

Busting a move to "Come 'N Ride It (The Train)", students boogied to the beat.

Dancing In The Rain

A rainy cold weekend didn't dampen the spirits for the October 19th Harbor Homecoming. Festivities began with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen Katie Ketchum. "I was disappointed when the weather kept us from riding on the convertibles," Katie states, "but I forgot all the negatives when my name was announced as queen!" With excitement, Katie's dad threw the umbrella across the field and then warmly embraced his daughter.

Look out! Sophomores Deidre Anderson and Andrea Deak, junior Beth Sulin, and senior Carrie Blevins start their own dance train.

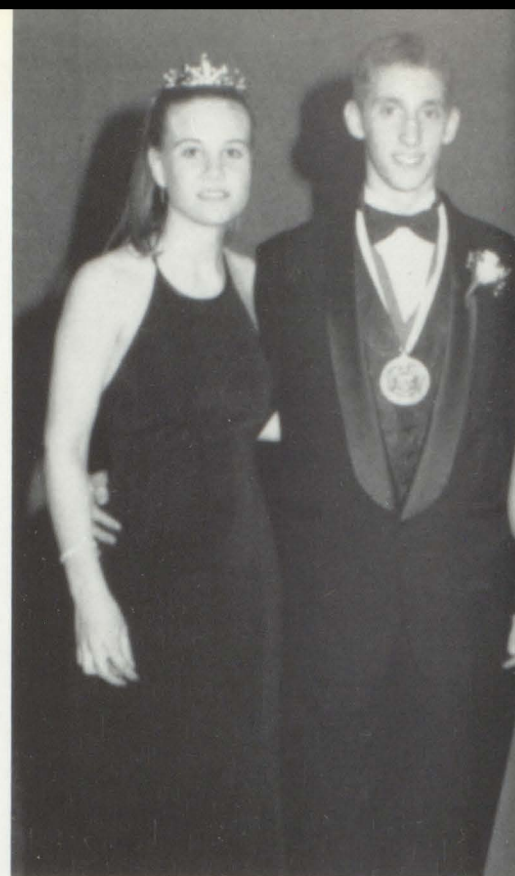

Our football team added to our excitement with a 20-6 win over Harvey. The dance theme was "Masquerade" and Senior Women were busy on Friday and Saturday decorating. Students danced the night away with our D.J. Gary Kuhn and will always remember the hula hoop contest, Mr. Powell and sophomore Marcel Alexander dancing in the spotlight, and the formal introduction of our queen and the court. Senior Mario Sallee stated, "The dance was a blast and the Homecoming was complete with a victory against the Red Raiders."

--Kacee McCollum

Surprised by the double crowning, seniors Haley Bollman, Scott Stouffer, LeeAnn McClintic, and Brian Mills reign as kings and queens.

Having a great time at prom, juniors and seniors dance the night away gazing at the highly hung golden stars.

Moonlight Serenade

The juniors started off their year preparing for prom. Primarily they had to find an advisor. Luckily the junior parents, led by Mrs. Marie Ranier and Mrs. Diane Perry, came to the rescue. As the juniors and seniors arrived at DeRuberis Party Center, they noticed all the hard work and dedication put into making the evening special.

The evening began with pictures and dinner. After dinner, chaperones and students danced the night away to the sounds of DJ Todd Kent. The mood was set with blue and gold stars, moons, balloon arches, and the amazing ice sculpture. Junior P.J. Varkette said, "My favorite thing about prom was wearing a tuxedo and going somewhere nice where I had fun."

The 1997 Prom Court included Liz

Bollman and Jason Tobias, Courtney Campbell and Jason Nieves, Crystal Steel and Jared Ford, Stacy Silva and Todd Matrisciano, Julie Blum and Chris Moore, and Jenny Hall and Greg Karbacka. A pleasant surprise was the crowning of two kings and queens—LeeAnn McClintic and Brian Mills, and Haley Bollman and Scott Stouffer. Haley Bollman commented on the double crowning: "I was very excited that we both won because LeeAnn and I were best friends in grade school." The end of the night brought many mixed emotions. The juniors felt proud of their accomplishments while the seniors realized that their year was coming to an end.

—Liz Bollman, Katie Ketchum, Crystal Steel, and Courtney Campbell

Dancing in the moonlight, seniors Joe Goudy and Zanna Luhta take a time-out from each other to take a picture.

Now You See Us....Now You Don't!

June 5 marked a turning point in the lives of 128 graduating Seniors. After four short years, the group received their diplomas and walked out of Harbor High School to begin a new chapter in each of their lives. Gathered in the lower auditorium, the group nervously waited to march into Fawcett Gymnasium. They began to realize it would be the last time they would sit together as the Class of 1997.

Seated, the class was addressed by fellow classmates and the five valedictorians. Mindy Mead lead the Invocation and Kyra Colgrove provided the Benediction. Class President Liz Bollman presented Ryan Turner's framed basketball jersey as the class gift. Julie Blum, Jorena Dimare, Ryan Ellis, Todd Matrisciano, and Jacob Pallutch held the audiences' attention by basing their speeches on five different songs relating to the class. After diplomas were awarded, Chris Stroup, David Overbey, Michelle Ocilka, and Marjorie Benjamin proudly lead the singing of the "Harbor Hymn." Because of her unconditional support, the class chose English teacher Mrs. Lynne Montgomery as their guest speaker. Mrs. Montgomery reflected on the group's success working as a unit and also their outstanding academic and athletic accomplishments. The excitement rose and the celebration continued as the Class of 1997 marched out to join family and friends.

Graduates Bruce Snyder, Greg Karbacka, and Bograt Arutyunov show off their caps and gowns.

Stacie Severino patiently waits for Ms. Mottley to adjust her cap.

Waiting to march in, Dirk Feiler reminds Valedictorian Todd Matrisciano to put on his cap before giving his speech.

Courtney Campbell receives her diploma from board member Gail Deligianis as Mrs. Montgomery announces the next graduate.

Meet Your Match

For years, Harbor High School has had a distinguished tradition of sports excellence. There has also been a tradition of teamwork and unity.

Senior Chuck Brown received many awards for his football play, the most prestigious being First Team All-State. Junior Matt Williams also went to state competition for golf. Certain teams at Harbor also found success. The Lady Mariner Volleyball team placed first in the NEC, and the Wrestling and Boys' Basketball teams finished among the top teams of the NEC. -Kristy Josson Elated fans, team members, and head coach Frank Roskovics jump for joy as the Lady Mariner Volleyball team spikes the Jefferson Falcons for the first time in 22 matches. The team went on to win first place in the Northeastern Conference.

Colorful bunches of fall leaves nestled in their hair, the girls' cross country team groups together before their race.

Up to Par

As the golf team ended their season with a record of seven wins and ten losses, they looked back on a season filled with fond memories. Seniors Jared Ford and Jacob Pallutch, and juniors Doug Meschko, Brad Best, and Matt Williams gave their best to better their record. Nick Bodnar, Kory Rizzo, and Chad Dale were also there to lend a club (hand) when they were needed. The junior varsity team consisted of Eric Watts, Nick Bodnar, Chad Dale, and Mike Chicacchiero.

A great end to a not so great season was Matt Williams' qualification for the regional tournament near Columbus. Matt qualified at districts with an 81 ensuring him the third individual qualifier spot. Coach Pat Colucci said "I had a feeling something good was going to happen. Matt has been an excellent tournament player for us all year..."

The golf season is sure to bring back some fond memories such as: betting on how long the football field was while waiting to get group pictures taken, Doug's little "talks" in the van on the way to an away match, and Coach telling us before every match, "If we win this one, we're back in it!" So from all of the departing seniors: Good luck next year!

Lady Mariners on Top

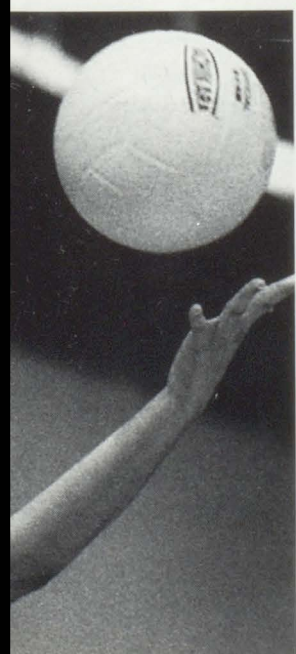

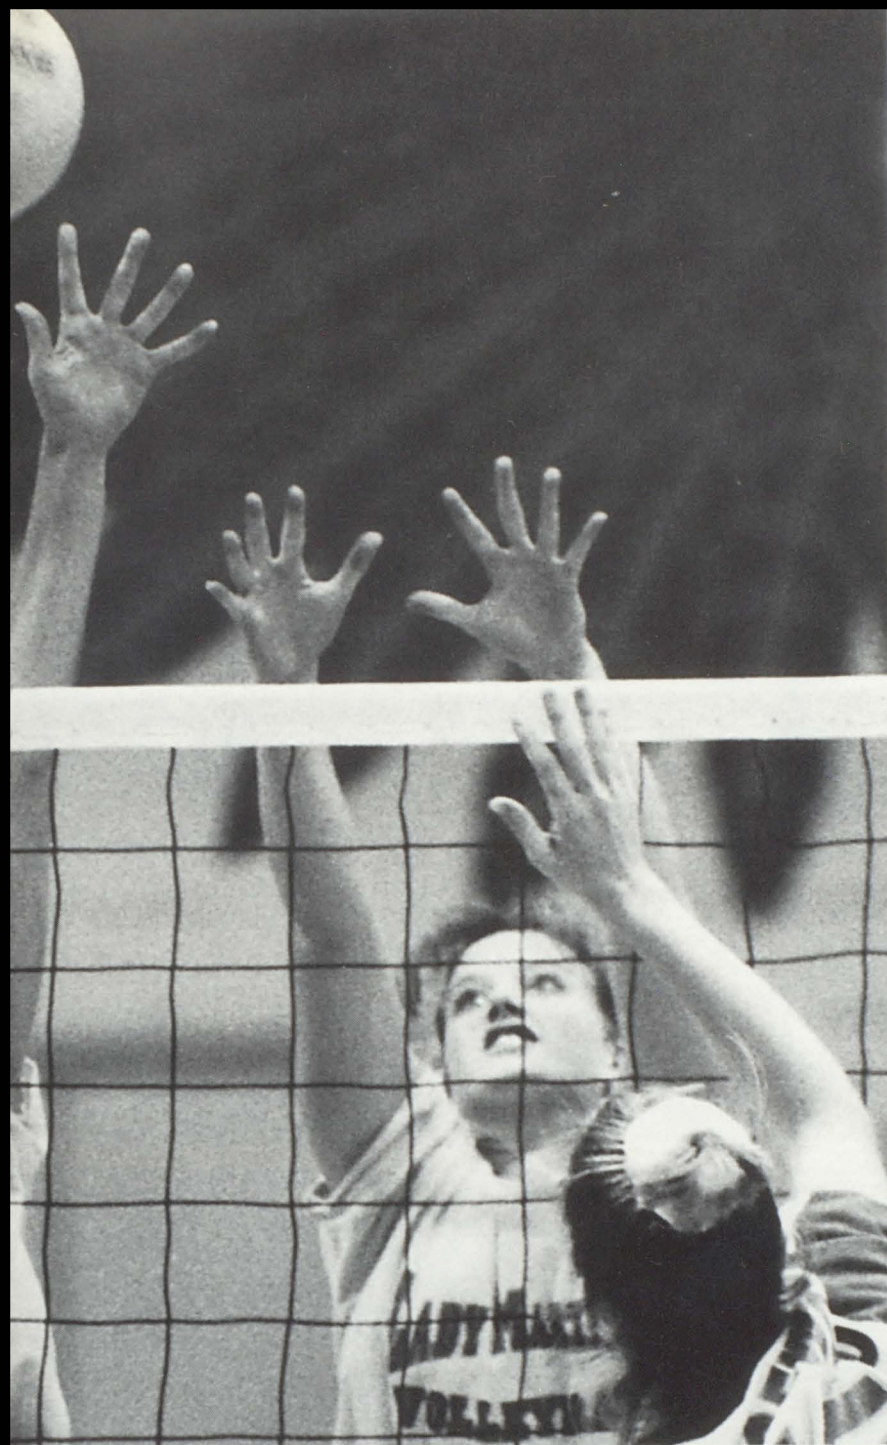

On August 8, 1996, thirty girls walked into Fawcett Gymnasium for what would be the first of many weeks of practice. The aura surrounding the girls and coaches was enthusiastic, competitive and friendly. In the weeks that followed, the players generated their energy and goals as individual players to develop team unity and focus as a group. From the freshmen's awkwardness to the seniors' experience these athletes had a willingness and dedication that some coaches can only dream of finding in players.

At all levels the volleyball season proved to be successful. The freshman team, led by Coach Lori Merciliott, earned respect with a 10-1 record. When asked what made their season a winning season the group responded by stating, "Mrs. Merciliott." Another factor that contributed to the wins was that "we got along well and we had fun playing together," said Sarah Bollman. On the JV level, Coach Maenpa's mixture of sophomores and juniors made their mark with a 16-3 record.

"Starting off strong, playing hard, and having fun helped us win," said setter Amanda Brayman.

This year's Varsity team definitely made a statement with a record of 23-2. Not only did the team break the school record for most wins but also brought home a long overdo N.E.C. Championship. In tournaments the team easily won its Sectional game against Conneaut and advanced to Districts where the girls played a hard fought game but were defeated by Lake Catholic. For the seven seniors that led the Varsity team, this year had been an opportunity that they had spent three years preparing for. Dedication and drive, a common goal, and friendship kept the team winning. Throughout the season the pride and spirit in the stands was overwhelming. The support from parents, staff, and students made the season all the more memorable.

After clinching the N.E.C. title 11 senior men proudly show their support.

Record of 3-7

3-5 record in NEC

Row 1: Justin Severino, David Snyder, Scott Vanderlind, Ben

A Rocky Road!

Even though the Harbor High School Football team ended its season with a disappointing 3-7 record, the season did include some high points. The three wins that the team did rack up were exciting games which brought out the true teamwork and HHS spirit embodied in each of the players. They put forth the effort to accomplish their goals.

Adding to team wins, many outstanding players were recognized for their work. Senior Charles Brown collected many awards: First Team All-County, All-Area, All-District, All-Ohio and Defensive Back of the Year in the NEC. Charles also won the Jim Kanicki Outstanding Senior Athlete-Robert L. Wiese Memorial Scholarship from the Ashtabula Touchdown Club. Sophomore Kurt Eckenrod made First Team All-County and Honorable Mention All-NEC. Rounding out the list were senior Justin Severino and juniors Rob Lawwill and Frank Perry who earned Second Team All-County recognition.

Coach Hassett said, "Even though we did not win many games, the team always came to play and gave their best efforts. The future is looking bright for next year's squad." --Kacee McCollum

Crossing the Limits

The Mariner cross-country team can best be described by the famous Pepsi commercial- "The choice of a new generation." The reason being the majority of the girl's and boy's teams were freshmen and sophomores. The season for both teams was not greatly successful. However, many great things happened.

This year three senior captains were chosen: Ryan Ellis, Mike Kachersky, and Mindy Mead. The two coaches were Warren Dillaway and Louis Spencer. Between the coaches and captains fun events and tough workouts were planned. Through hard work the girl's team moved up three places in the N.E.C. from last year. One big help for the girl's team was Christina Kachersky, who kept a smile on everyone's face through all of the rain, cold, and disappointing losses. She finished second at N.E.C.'s, second at Districts, eleventh at Regionals, and earned herself a trip to the State meet in Columbus. On the guy's side, Mike Kachersky made second team all N.E.C. The Kachersky duo (Christina and Mike) won Most Valuable Players at the fall awards banquet.

Spirit, Hey!

Many changes occurred during the 1996-97 cheerleading season. The first of these changes was separate tryouts for football and basketball. This gave the girls less time for preparation and more competition. Another change that occurred was the loss of advisors Miss Jill Thurston and Mrs. Cyndi DiAngelo, with the addition of Mrs. Marianne Ketchum.

After tryouts in the spring for the following football season, the girls started off their summer practices teaching the new girls the different dance routines, cheers, and jumps. They also had to get ready for the Jefferson Fair Competition where J.V. took first place. As the season moved on, the girls had to get ready for basketball season. Their practices changed to four days a week and games twice a week. They were still active organizing pep assemblies, getting ready for games, making locker signs and scrapbooks, teaching material to the new girls, and getting ready for another competition. The cheerleaders brought back three trophies. Varsity and Freshmen both took second place and J.V. took third. Mr. Jossion said it best; "No one knows how much work and dedication goes into cheerleading. They don't get the credit they deserve."

However, the girls kept their spirits high during the busy seasons and throughout all the changes. Junior basketball player Ryan Turner said, "Even when we lost, the cheerleaders were right there to console us and keep us up. Even though we don't come out and say it; it really means a lot."

A Slam-Dunk Season

When they stepped onto the floor, the 1996-1997 Mariner Basketball Team dominated the court. After team camps, open gyms and practices, the team faced their first N.E.C. challenge on December 6th against Ashtabula. Then they realized that all of the hard work was paying off. This was the start of an exciting and unpredictable season.

The N.E.C. was marked with heavy competition. Each game was crucial to the team's success. The Mariners showed their strength by setting the pace of the game and pulling together to come from behind. Although there were disappointing losses to Riverside and Edgewood, the team fought back. "Losing to Edgewood was tough but we showed who the better team was in tournaments," stated center sophomore Kenny Vanyo.

Fearsome dunks by senior Mario Sal-lee and junior Ryan Turner, and unexpected three-pointers from junior Todd Estok and sophomore Kurt Eckenrodt brought the crowd to their feet many times. Senior Jason Tobias and junior Jeff Moore pressured opponents with strong defensive moves. More importantly, the Mariners had a well rounded team including seniors Tony Pasanen, Greg Karbacka and Jason Nieves, juniors Rob Lawwill and Jerry Edwards and sophomores Kenny Vanyo and Jamar Parker.

Finishing second in the N.E.C., the players easily sailed over Perry and West Geauga in the sectional tournaments. Although defeated by Lake Catholic, the Mariners' season displayed the mental and physical skills needed to succeed.

Overcoming Obstacles

By overcoming many obstacles, the 1996-1997 Lady Mariners basketball team proved that it would be a force to be reckoned with in the years to come. Behind the leadership of Kyra Colgrove and Julie Blum, the two senior co-captains, the young team finished with an overall record of 4-17. However, the team's record did not accurately reflect the girl's effort. The players proved what they had to offer when they came back in the fourth quarter against Geneva to beat them 41-32. The girls also used their hearts and pride to muscle out a 3 point win over Conneaut to end their regular season play. Sophomore Amy Balmford stated: "It was a tough season, but it was a learning experience."

At the annual Winter Sport's Banquet, the girls were recognized for their hard work and achievements. The Most Improved Player Award was awarded to sophomore Lauren Sposito. The Most Valuable Player went to senior Kyra Colgrove. Kyra was also on first team NEC, second team All-County, and earned special mention for All-Area and District.

A Second Place Season

Through many injuries, some as big as a broken arm to some as little as a black eye, the Harbor High wrestlers made their mark in the NEC. Not only were they City Champs, but they also placed second in the NEC overall, second at the Perry Super Quad, and third at the NEC tournament. The team's success also shed light on the sport of wrestling, and more support for the team was shown by the student body.

Heavyweight senior Chuck Brown wrestled his way through the NEC, sectionals, districts, and placed fifth at the state level. This also earned Chuck All-State distinction. "Coaches, friends, and managers helped push me through it all," said Brown. "Great coaching brings great teams."

Other senior stars included Chad Fortney and Shane Lester, both of whom placed first at the Copley Tournament and the NEC. Both wrestlers also ended their high school careers placing at sectionals and wrestling at districts. Adam Peterson took second place in the NEC, and John Senger earned a fourth. Jason Zall also placed third at Copley Tournament.

Junior Tony Young placed third at Copley, first at the NEC, third at sectionals, and qualified for districts. First year wrestler, Jason Branscome, placed second at Berkshire. At 112 pounds, freshman Brad Myllymaki took fourth at Copley and sectionals, and third at the NEC. He, too, qualified for districts.

"This is the best team I've coached in a long time. I will never forget this team!" —
Coach Rick Hakala

A Season To Remember!

The Mariner baseball team took another NEC title this year. The overall record of 15-5 and 14-2 in the NEC was the best record in Harbor High history! One of the highlights of the season was the 16-1 victory over Edgewood. Seniors Greg Karbacka and Jason Tobias, and junior Dan Mozingo all hit home runs in that game. Junior Scott Whitney led the team in home runs with 3.

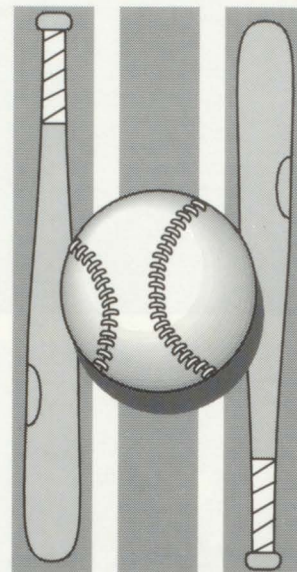

Junior Dan Mozingo a left-handed pitcher, was named the Star Beacon's 1997 All-Ashtabula County Player of the Year! Dan struck out 120 batters- a new Harbor record. Other Harbor team members who made All-County First Team were junior pitcher Rob Lawwill and senior infielder Jason Tobias. Second team players included junior Frank Perry and senior Tony Pasanen.

At the Harbor Spring Sports Banquet, senior Jason Tobias was given the "Hitman" award, senior Tony Pasanen recieved the Most Improved Player award, junior Dan Mozingo was handed the "Golden Glove" award, and senior Marty Sittnick got the "Charlie Hustle" award. Seniors being lost this year are Greg Karbacka, Steve Altonen, Nick Bodnar, Jason Tobias, Tony Pasanen and Marty Sittnick. Coach Craft, voted NEC coach of the year, commented, "In my 23 years of coaching, I've never been around a better group of guys." The season was dedicated to, and in memory of Ryan Anthony Turner.

Keeping an EYE On the Ball!

The Harbor softball team, having graduated five senior letter winners and starters from the 1996 squad, was not picked to do much by the area coaches in the 1997 preseason polls. Much to everyone's surprise, the 1997 edition of the Lady Mariner's finished at a 9 and 11 overall record, and at a 9 and 7 record in the NEC. This was good enough to put the team in fourth place. It marked the sixth straight year that a Harbor softball team finished over .500 in the NEC softball race.

A bright future is on the horizon for the Lady Mariners as this years team lost only two seniors, Kyra Colgrove and Kodie Cunningham. A total of 7 freshmen dressed and received some valuable varsity playing time. I believe the girls came to the conclusion that they were good enough to beat anyone, anywhere, anytime, when they played ball to the best of their abilities. - Coach Paul Bodnar

Winning Rackets!

The Boys' tennis team took to the courts again with a record of 3 wins, 15 losses, and 2-13 in the NEC. Although the record doesn't show it, coach Jerry Slay felt that the young team showed much improvement. Sean Allds made great strides as he defeated Matt Jamison from Madison, in his third year attempt. Sean finalized his year as he took home the Most Valuable Player award from the Spring Sports Banquet. Freshman, Justin Ford was appointed Most Improved Player. Another highlight of the season was in doubles play, when Matt Williams and Eric Blenman defeated Grand River after four years of attempts.

A major change in tennis this year was the addition of a girls tennis team. The team was coached by Jerry Slay and Gary Kuhn. The girls finished their first season 4-5. Natalie Rich went home with the Most Valuable Player award during the Spring Sports Banquet, while the Most Improved Player award went to Nicole Ranier.

The fun wasn't always with "raquet in hand", as the team reflected back to all the squirt gun fights, wrestling in the van, and David Overbey borrowing the van for a Taco Bell run! Eric Blenman's parting words were, "Much improvement was made during the season but we look forward to next year as even better!"

Ready? Set. Go!!!

Ready? Set. Go!!! The 1997 Mariner Track season began with a blistery start. Conditioning began in the frigid winter air and continued through most of the season. Despite many obstacles placed in the way, the teams pulled through.

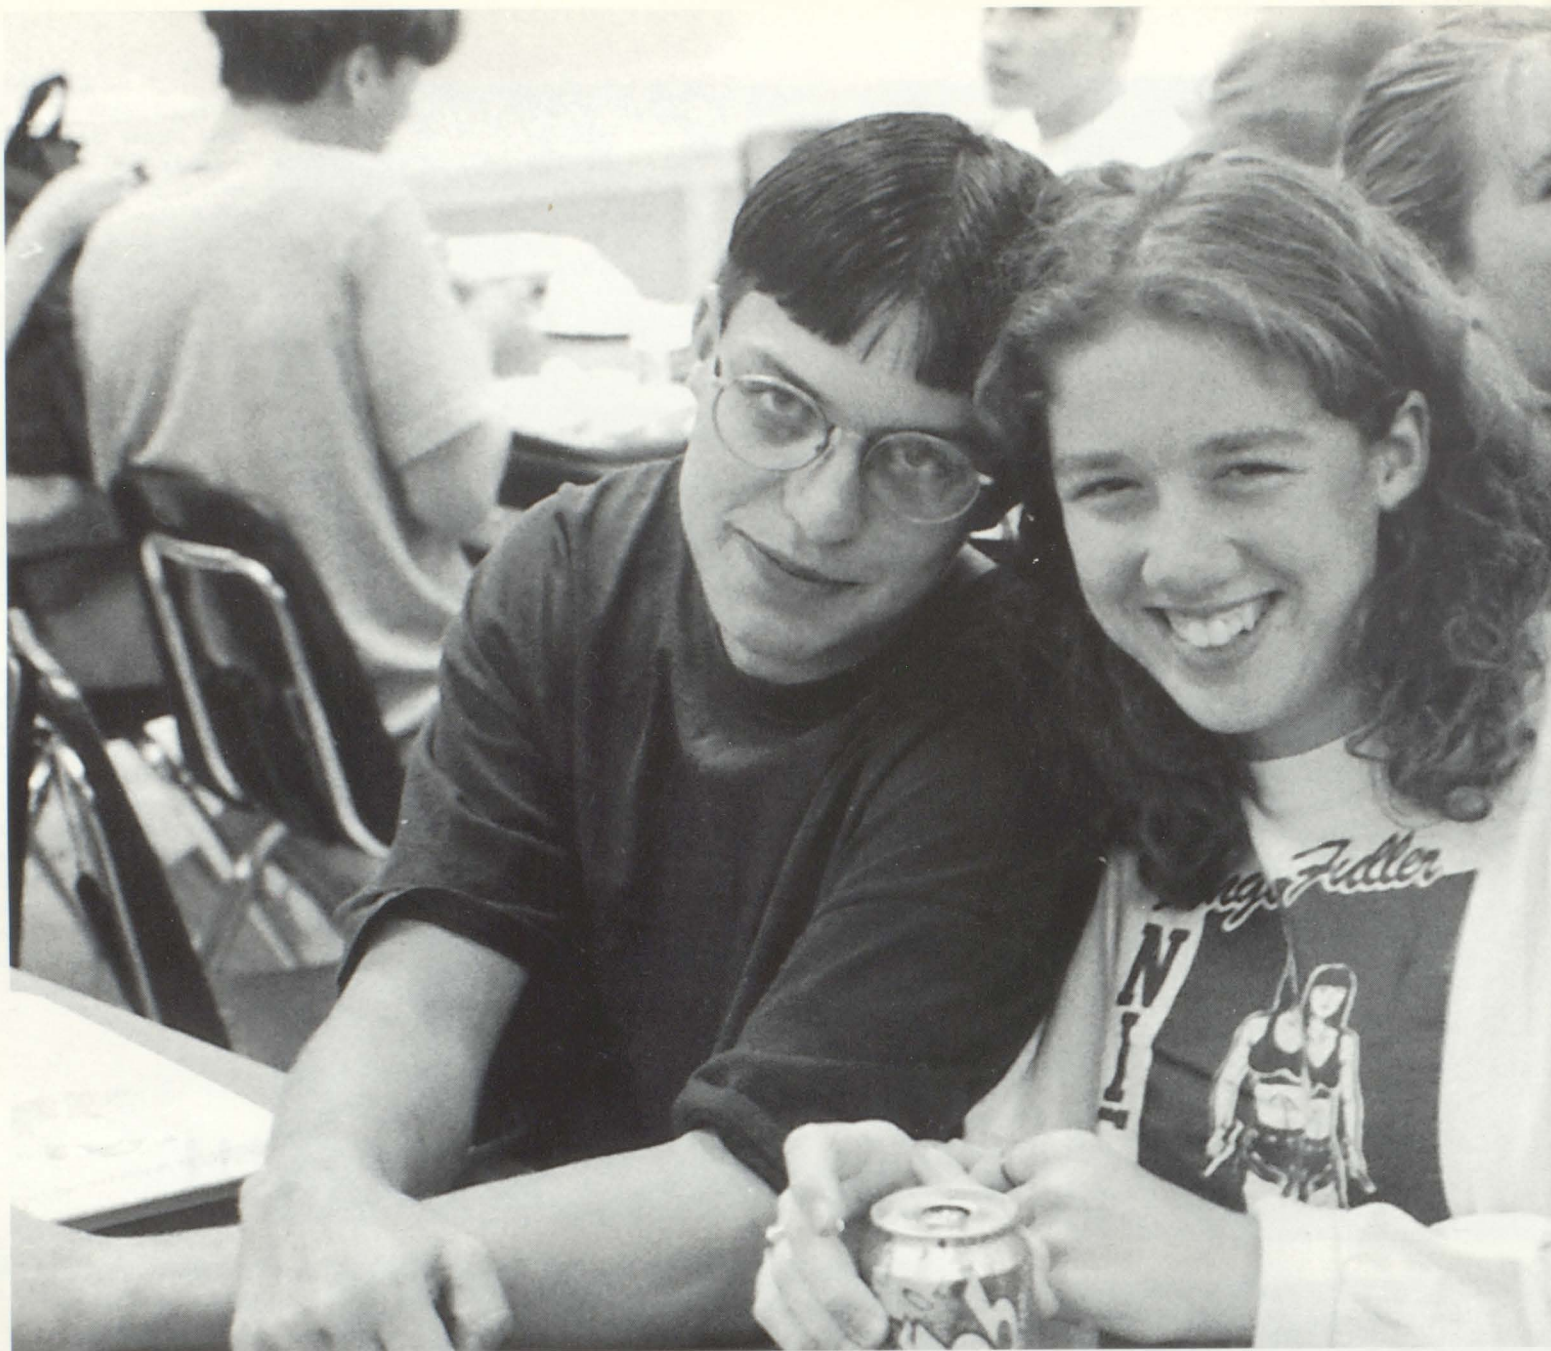

Although the girls did not have many high team places, many individuals and relays stood out. Christina Kachersky and Jennifer Jerman were two that excelled on their own. Kachersky broke the mile record by eleven seconds. The new record is now 5:15. Jerman had a successful throwing season, often placing first in the meets. There were two extremely successful relays at Harbor. Both the 4x800 and 4x400 were led by Kachersky. Other athletes in this duo were seniors: Edina McCollum, Corrie Wallace, and Mindy Mead, along with sophomore Amy Balmford. Other records were set at Harbor with a female pole vaulter. Mindy Mead set the first girl's record of six feet.

The guys were led by three captains: Todd Matrisciano, Chuck Brown, and Ryan Ellis. The team had few members and were plagued with injuries, but they fared well in the larger meets. The guys took second at the Pymatuning Invitational with only 11 athletes competing. Also, they took third at the All-County Meet with only 12 athletes. Outstanding performers Chuck Brown and Todd Matrisciano consistently placed throughout the year. Following in their footsteps were Fred Schwentker, Josh Smead, Matt Lynagh, and Tim Vance, who helped the team with respectable finishes in their events.

man and freshman Erika Jossen enjoy a pep assesmbly.

"Rah, rah, rah!" Junior cheerleader Jessica Miller and freshmen cheerleaders Mandi Loeffel and Abby Snyder

Class of 1997

A View From the Top

Becoming a Senior meant more than just being the oldest in the school. The long awaited senior year marked the ending of an educational path. It was a time to wrap up academic obligations and prepare for the future.

For most students their last year of high school was not easy. Reading deadlines, research papers, government projects, and proficiency tests weighed heavily on students' minds. As the year progressed it seemed as though the quarters got more difficult. "It seemed like there just was not enough time to get everything done," stated Amy McClintic. Seniors were also faced with choosing a college, preparing for military services or heading straight into the work force. Many planning for college nervously waited for acceptance letters and rushed to meet scholarship deadlines.

However, the year was not all seriousness. Dances, athletic, band, and choir events became more important for the Seniors, because they knew it would be the last time to participate in these events. Overcoming academic obstacles and making memories finally came to an end. "Because everyone is heading in different directions next year, I will miss the closeness of our class," expressed Ben Hecht. The last year of high school was not only a time to reflect on the past and look to the future, but also enjoy the present. Now Seniors look forward to meeting again at reunions.

The Class of 1997 overwhelmed the rest of the school with their spirit at the Homecoming pep assembly.

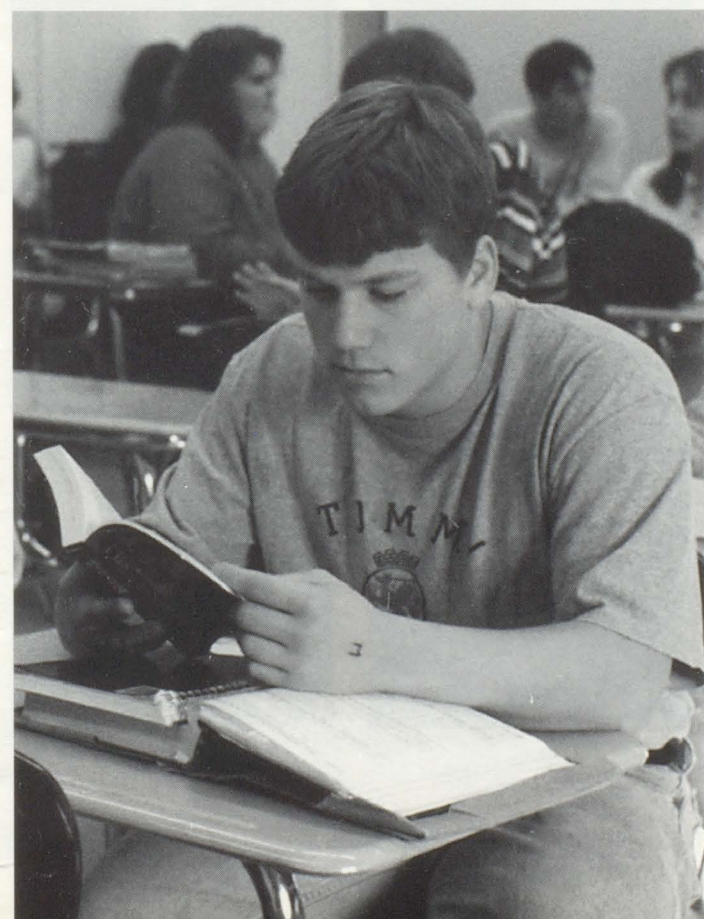

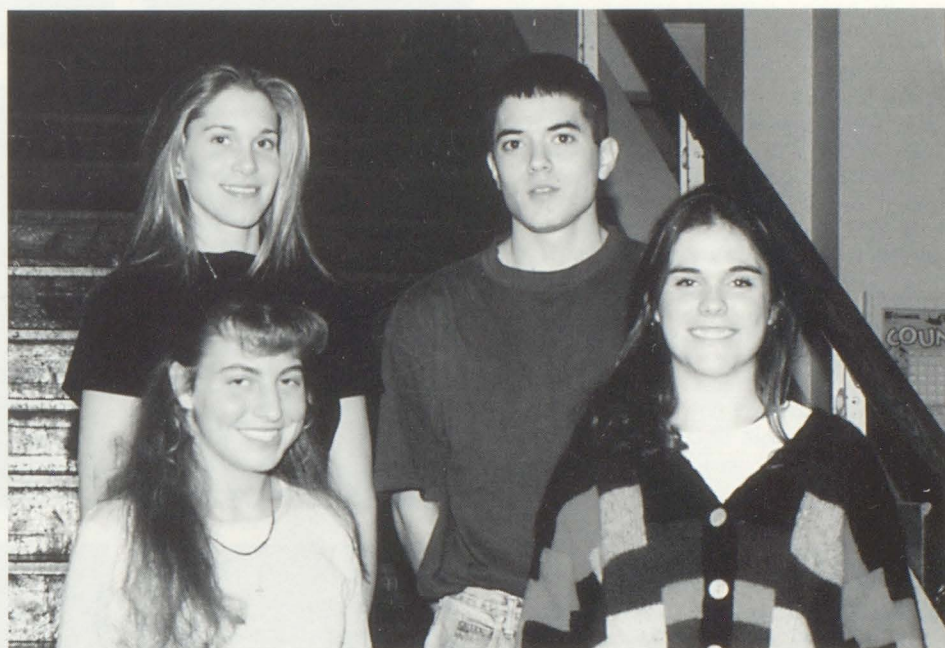

Giving the gift of life, Senior Lucia Patete participates in a Halloween blood drive.

Taking advantage of some quiet time, Adam Peterson attempts to finish his outside reading.

Vo-ed student Dirk Feiler quenches his thirst before going to class.

The officers of the graduating class were Liz Bollman, President; Todd Matrisciano, Vice-President; Katie Ketchum, Treasurer; and Zoe Carlisle Secretary.

In Loving Memory of

While traveling down Route 45, Ryan Anthony Turner, along with his sister Donia and friend Shanika Isom, were involved in a three-car accident. Shanika was declared dead at the scene, while Ryan and Donia were transported to Metro Hospital in Cleveland. The next night in the Intensive Care Unit at Metro Hospital, Ryan passed away.

To understand the full impact of his death, one must first know how he affected people's lives at Harbor. Most people knew him as Ryan Turner the basketball star. He was feared by opponents, adored by fans, and admired by all. His natural talent combined with his determination was a spectacular sight to see when he stepped onto the court.

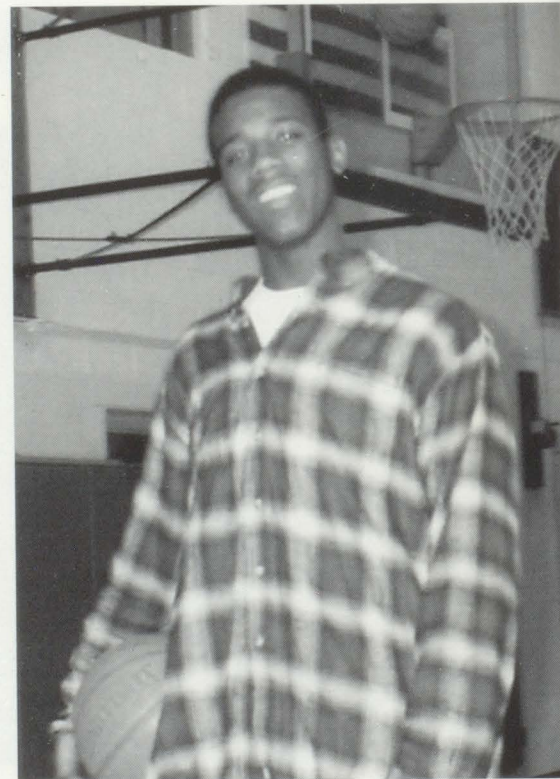

When Turner came to Harbor, he accomplished a feat that few attain—he made the varsity team as a freshman. Halfway through his first season, he was ineligible to play because of his grades. Instead of giving up, he showed his coach and everyone at Harbor how self-driven he really was. Mr. Tallbacka commented on Ryan as a player, "Ryan was one of the most coachable people I have been around. More importantly, he was a fantastic human being. He was the kind of kid who you just liked to be around."

That time during his freshman year was a wake-up call for him and he focused on his goals from that point on. In his English III journal he wrote about his determination to do well in school, "Now I have set goals and it is all about achieving them...I just hope that God is watching over me and will give me the strength to strive on and not give up."

Ryan believed in himself, for the remaining history of his basketball success seems to be never-ending. For the '96-'97 basketball season, Ryan was voted team captain and was selected for First Team All-County, All NEC and All District. Turner averaged 16 points, 11 rebounds, and 3 blocked shots per game.

His dynamic personality shone in many ways, especially when he flashed his huge smile. While he was focused on his own personal goals, Ryan also had a generous heart that was open to all and especially generous to his family and friends. In a different journal entry

can be taken up again in heaven,
never to be broken off.

St. Francis de Sales

he expressed his love for his nephew, "I just want him to be happy and have a good childhood, that's all. I will do anything in my power to make sure he is happy." The mutual love and support that he received and gave with his family influenced his interactions with all people. Ryan was always open to meeting new people and making new friends. As Jenna Bellomo said, "He had a love for life that few people could match."

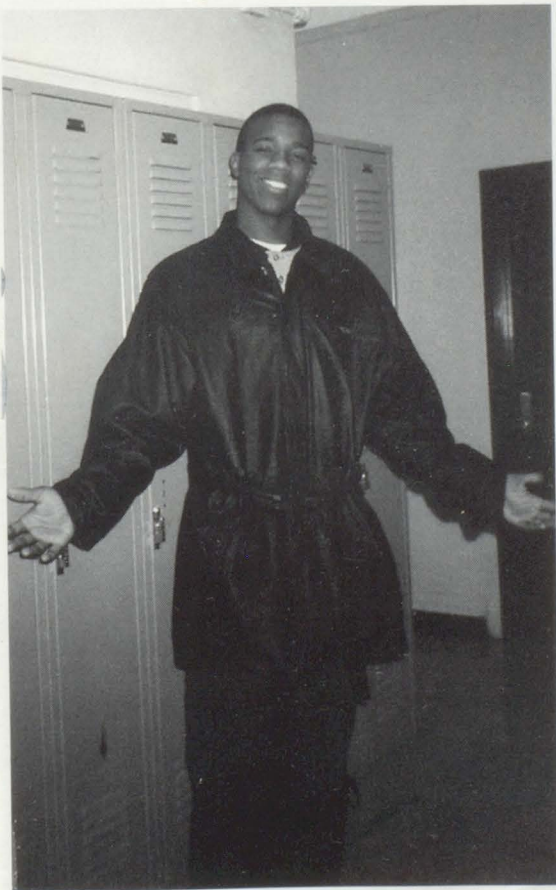

Ryan's optimism was another admirable trait. A good example of this is taken from a journal essay in which he's talking about the upcoming basketball season, Ryan writes, "This year we will be the team everyone wants to take down. I love it when a team comes to play us all pumped up and all ready for the upset. Then we just send them back home dejected and in tears because they got embarrassed by the Harbor Mariners. I have a feeling this will be a season I will never forget. You know why? Because I'm with a group of guys I love unconditionally." His enthusiasm was contagious. Ryan always believed that he could do whatever he set his mind to.

In a word, Ryan was amazing. His presence at Harbor was felt whether you knew him well or not. Walking down the hall, you could hear his laugh travel after you. As a student, you felt pride in your school just by watching him play basketball. For these reasons and much more, Ryan is and will be sorely missed by all of us. His inspiration will reach the students on a much deeper level now. We should all be as driven as Ryan was.

Again, the best example to give comes directly from him, "I will succeed. I will be known world wide. I'm telling everyone right now. It is a feeling I have had since I was young. I know I will be famous. I will not be denied my dream. If someone wants to shatter my dream try it but it won't work because my stuff is bullet proof. My name is Ryan Anthony 'Ike' Turner. Remember that name because you will hear it frequently!"

Triple Take

A new year, a new adventure, a new step! Many juniors could not believe that they were actually there: one year away from being a senior! Many students found themselves planning college visits, filing for financial aid, and preparing to be the highest on the ladder of high school success.

Junior class members were found this year experiencing many new things. For instance, standardized tests were a highlight for juniors. Taking these tests also helped in preparing for college. Students found that taking tests showed them what to expect when trying to get into a college.

Raising money proved to be a difficult task for the juniors, but it all paid off with an excellent prom. The fundraisers included a disco dance, which brought many students dressed for such the occasion. "The disco dance was a blast! It really gave the students a place to just go, relax, and have fun," quotes junior Amanda Brayman. During the summer, junior class parents sold Cleveland Indians tickets. These went over real well, and helped bring in money. This fundraiser, thanks to Matt Williams' parents, gave the junior class a great boost in funds. Many of the juniors enjoyed their year. The graduating class of 1998 is right around the corner, and it's looking great!

Junior Jason Sams is already looking toward his future as he makes a phone call to a local college hoping that he will soon receive his acceptance letter in the mail.

Reacting to a joke told to them, juniors Gretchen Krystynak and Becky Wallbridge can't help but laugh.

Teaching us how to eat right, juniors Tony Young and Marc Dennis eat healthy during lunch.

Helping raise funds for the Model UN, junior Mia DiAngelo sells donuts during her lunch period.

Worth a Second Glance

The title "Freshman" was gone! They'd moved up a step on the high school ladder and earned the new title "Sophomore"! "I hated having that title. A lot of upper-classmen teased us," commented sophomore Nicole Schultz.

Sophomores, with the help of Mr. Jossion, class advisor, worked on fundraisers during the year, looking ahead to next year, beginning to plan for prom expenses. One of the most profitable fundraisers the sophomores held was the bake sale at Wal-Mart just before Christmas. "My sister Julie and I baked cookies together for the sale. But mine were better than hers!" exclaimed sophomore Andy Hull. "We earned a lot of money at the bake sale."

As most looked ahead, many decisions needed to be made. "Will I go to the VO-ED, or will I stay at Harbor?" was a dilemma for sophomore Erica Kangas. Looking at graduation and college left high hopes for most. Building relationships, passing tests, and keeping good grades were some of their achievements. They looked forward to their junior year with great anticipation of the future!

All freshmen share one thing in common: their fears and worries of their first year at Harbor High School. Would they get lost? Would they get hassled by the upperclassmen? Would they make new friends?

After only a few days at Harbor, however, the fears and worries the freshmen had, had gone away and turned into excitement. So many new experiences and activities were offered in high school like clubs, extra-curricular activities and intramurals that weren't offered to students in junior high. The freshmen class was also the first to take the science proficiency. Many did quite well on their first time taking these sometimes tricky tests. Harbor High School was much more than met the freshmen's eyes. It was only the beginning of an exciting four years for the Class of 2000. Freshman Taylor Lane stated, "I'm really excited about the years to come!"

Building Bridges

There is one word that can be used to describe this year's staff: Enthusiasm. From Mrs. Moroski's spirited English lessons to the bouncing of basketballs and volleyballs in the Phys. Ed. department, it seemed like all the H.H.S. staff members approached their jobs with pride and excitement. New technology in the third floor Chemistry lab and the I.T.V. set up added to the fun here at Harbor, as did dynamic course offerings like Miss Martino's Psychology class or Mr. McCunn's various woodshop sections. The monthly newspaper and morning announcements kept the staff on top of current events and helped them create a positive school environment.

This is not to say there won't be change- both the science and social studies departments are developing new curriculums.

Staff members contributed to many charitable causes, including giving extra credit for food collection around Thanksgiving and the candy brought in for the yearbook Valentine's Day project.

Many teachers went the extra mile with extracurriculars such as clubs, music, drama, and sports. A great example of this was the school spirit generated by the NEC champion volleyball team led by Mr. Roskovics. And, despite what some students may think, teachers do enjoy leisure activities such as golf, aerobics, travelling, or spending time with their families.

Many people say that our students are bridges to the 21st century. That being the case, one must agree that the Harbor teachers and staff are the architects of those bridges!!

—Mr. Tim Tallbacka

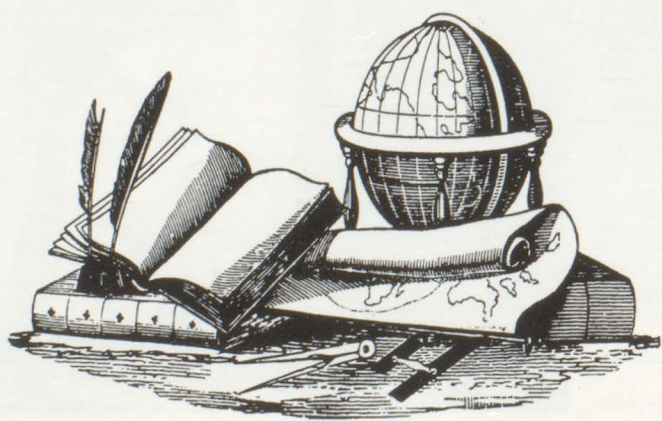

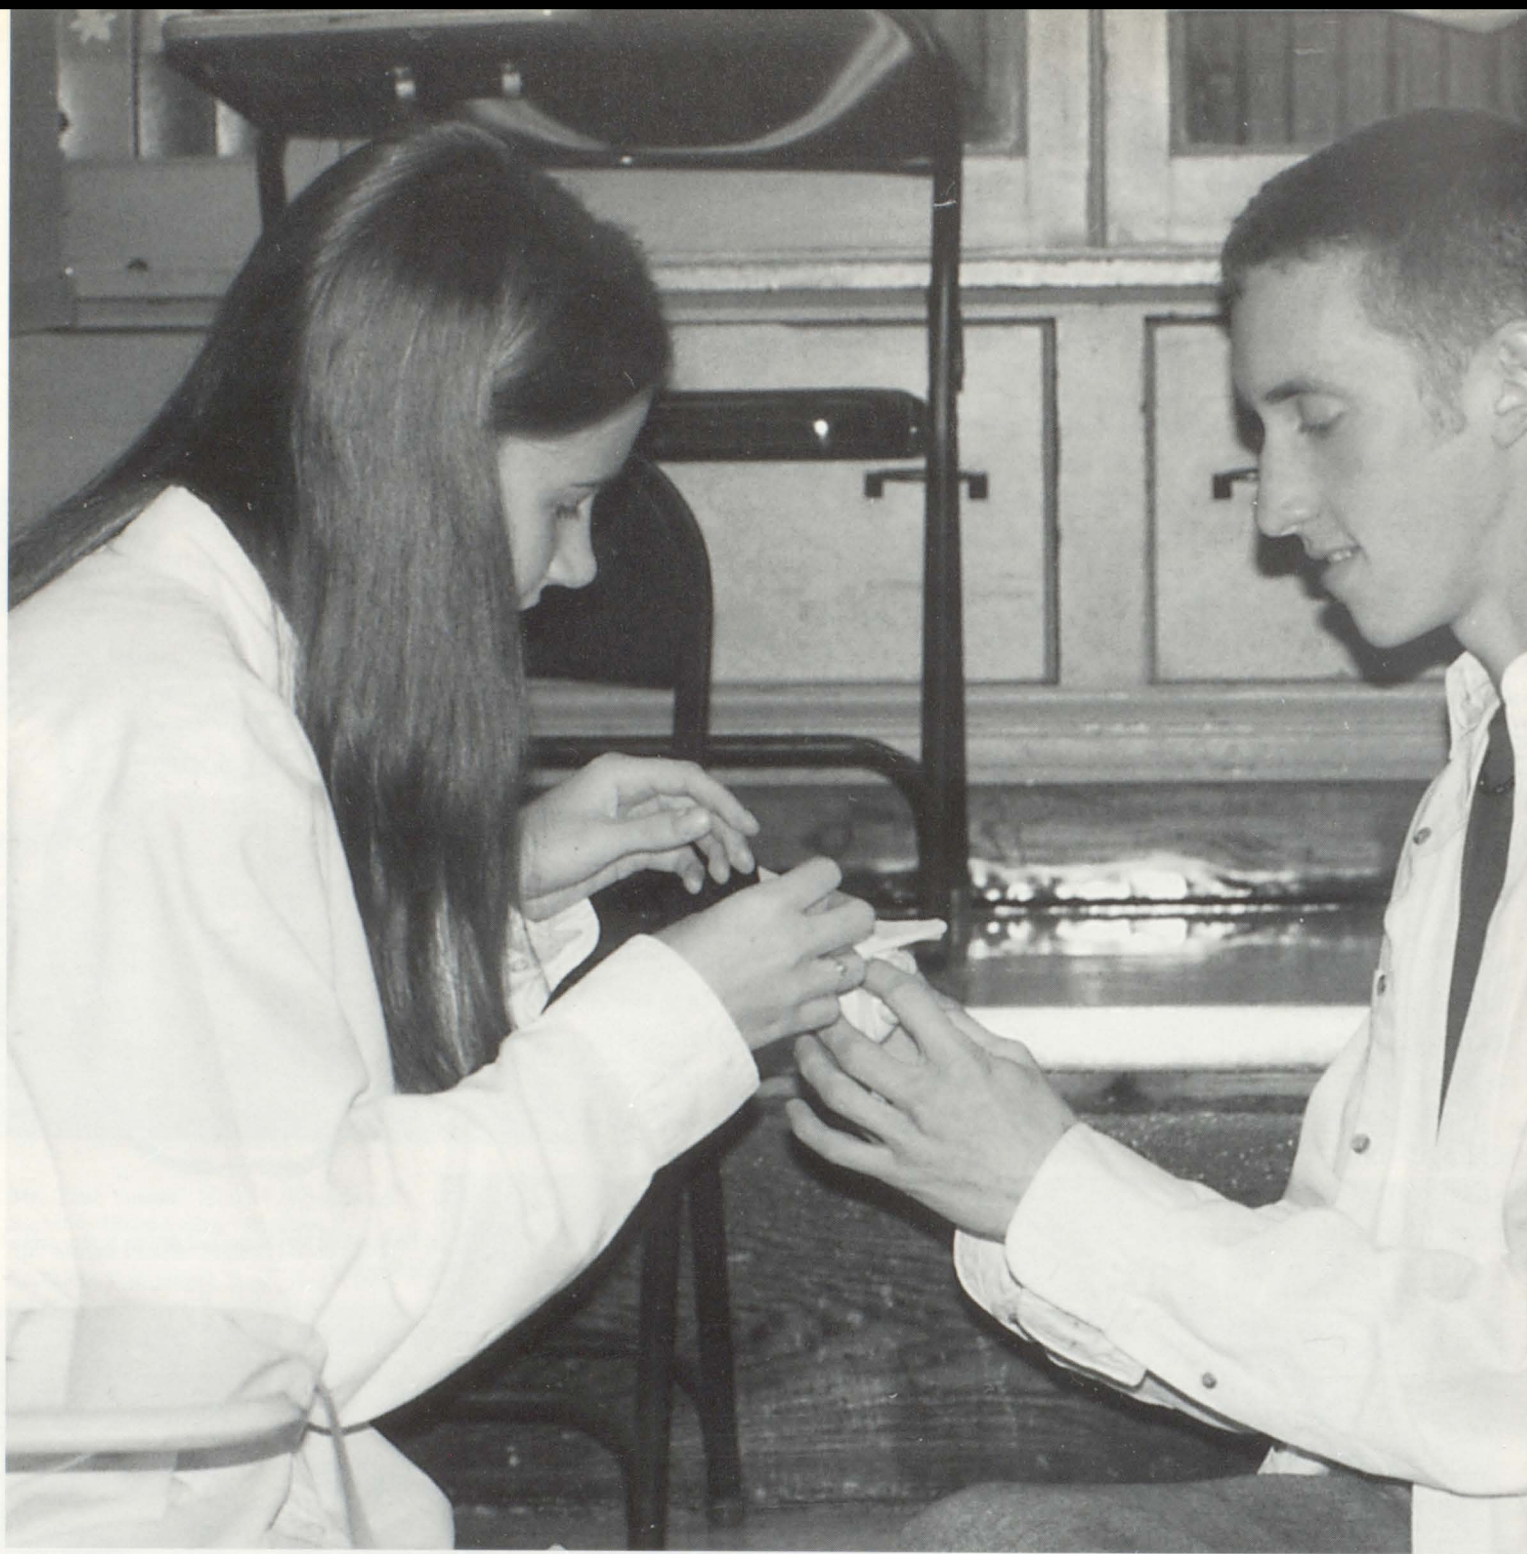

Mr. Bodnar and Mr. Nappi sell donuts before school while bonding.

Taking a break from the books, Miss Martino demonstrates a game to some of her Psychology students.

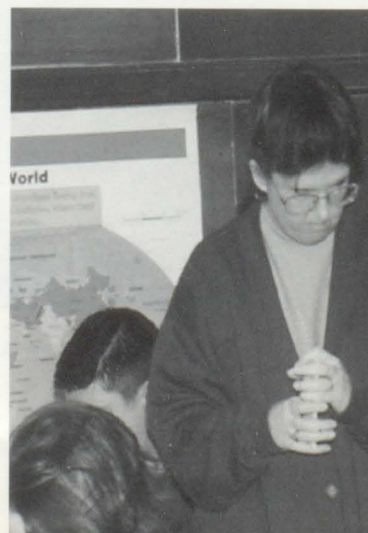

Seniors Haley Bollman and Scott Stouffer assemble a case to cushion their egg for a contest in physics class.

Meeting the Requirements

At first glance Harbor High School looked like any other old building. However, taking a closer look revealed the activity inside. For a century the institution has raised the standard of education, guided students, and provided opportunity.

Academics at Harbor provided a well rounded base for students this year. The school prided itself on the variety of classes and programs that were available. Considering the students' needs was an important aspect in choosing classes. The needs of students were met not only through general, college prep, and college prep honors courses, but also through programs such as vocational studies, O.W. A., and mentorship.

The Academic Booster Organization added to the challenging atmosphere of learning by promoting academic excellence. The Boosters sponsored an academic lottery and academic breakfast that rewarded students for their success and encouraged them to continue to focus on their studies.

A Hard Fought Battle!

Class tournaments were different this year. A tug-of-war, relay race, and the egg race were added. The boys' score and the girls' score were combined to compile one large score. This made it possible for many other students to get involved in the action.

Decorations included everything from hula-hoops to a thunderbird. "Taking the cake" was the senior class, winning with an overall score of 49 points. Sophomores came in second with 40 points, freshmen placed third with 34 points, juniors in fourth place with 31 points. Sophomores won the awards for best cheering section and best decorations. Sophomore Marcel Alexander stated, "I knew the seniors had a chance to win it all but I hoped sophomores would also finish well... and we did!"

More WORK Than Meets the Eye

To the average student, being a yearbook staffer seemed like an easy and care-free job. However, being on the yearbook really meant a lot of work and responsibility.

Staffers were expected to sell advertisements to local businesses at the beginning of the year. They also were assigned different spreads to complete. This required drawing a layout, writing copy, and cropping pictures. They also participated in fundraisers such as selling Cupid Grams for Valentine's Day. Selling, bagging, and tagging 550 Cupid Grams was not as easy as it looked!

Yearbook was not ALL work. The class, which was held fifth period, found the time to have plenty of fun throughout the year. One highlight was the Christmas party at Hulbert's Restaurant on Bridge Street.

WE'VE GOT THE BEAT!

Exhausting...Hot...Tiring... These are just a few of the responses you would get from the band when asked about band camp. But the five laboring days in Chautauqua Lake paid off for the Mariner Magic Marching Band this season.

The band decided to "jazz it up" this year with songs like Malaguena and Corazon. The dedication and motivation it took to accomplish this show and many others is more than anyone could ever imagine! Freshman John Steel quotes, "Being a freshman marching band member is a lot different and more exciting than being in a junior high band." A lot of fun times were also involved. Braving the dreary rain and freezing snow, the band still livens up the crowd at Friday night football games.

The Mariner Magic Marching Band ended the year with senior night, in which the songs were chosen by the seniors themselves. The show included Friends in Low Places, Land of 1,000 Dances, YMCA, and last but certainly not least, the band put on their boogie shoes and showed the crowd what they could do in Tequila. Led by Jennifer Yost, Chuck Heusinger, and Dale Schall, the band had a successful and enjoyable season.

Star Performers

Practice, practice, practice... That's what it takes for perfection. When the majorettes and flagline performed, they quickly realized the satisfaction of a routine done to perfection, due to all the practice! They loved to perform at football games, basketball games, and parades. "I joined the flag line because the thought of performing in front of large crowds excited me, and it was more fun than I thought," quotes senior Zoe Carlisle. Those were their goals: work hard, compliment the band's performance, and... HAVE FUN!

The season began with the annual trip to Edinboro, Pennsylvania where the Fred J. Miller Majorette/Flagline Clinic is held. They had four days to learn new routines. "Four days didn't seem long enough to learn all the routines that we did, but it was so much fun that the hard work didn't bother me," quoted freshman Rachelle Baker. Most of the girls gathered sponsors to help defray the cost of the clinic and help pay for new warm-up uniforms.

The routines learned at F.J. Miller Camp were used for some of the Friday night band shows. The year didn't end with football season. The majorettes and flag line members also performed for basketball season and conditioned for next year's tryouts, preparing for another exciting season.

Branson Bound

The Concert Band had a very successful season. Many fundraising activities were directed toward the trip to Branson, Missouri. Band members participated in All-County Band and the Solo and Ensemble contest. At Band contest, the concert band received an excellent rating on their renditions of His Honor, Legacy, and Where the Black Hawk Soars. Band officers were : Band Captain, Amy Camodeca, Senior Lieutenant, Lisa Sams, Junior Lieutenant, Valle Jarvis, Sophomore Representative, Michael Bernato, Freshman Representative, Matt Lynagh, Property Sgt. Allan Pendleton. The Jazz Band delivered many outstanding performances. Besides attending the Tri-C Jazz Fest, the band also participated in the 1st adjudicated Jazz Band contest, and received an excellent rating. The band also performed for the reverse raffle, and for the residents of the Country Club Retirement Center. To allow younger students to develop an interest in music, the band toured to several schools in the area.—Amy Camodeca

The Choir also accompanied the band to Branson. They participated in Chamber Choir and Solo and Ensemble. Some members even earned All-County Choir distinction. A Madrigal group was also formed, and they attended a Madrigal Fest at YSU. They also held their annual Christmas and Spring concerts for the public.—Amy McClintic

We Are the World

Although foreign languages at Harbor were a lot of hard work, the benefits that they provided made all the studying worth it.

The Spanish Club celebrated Cinco De Mayo and The Day of the Dead. Their spirited fiestas were famous around HHS! The club also went to see the play "Don Quixote", and even stopped at Chi Chi's for a real Mexican lunch! — Steve Young The French Club had nine members who spent their spring break in Paris! The club also inducted new members at the beginning of the year. to work in the ITV room and interact with schools from around the county. The club participated in soccer games against the French and Spanish clubs, and also was treated to Mrs. Kaura's famous bratwurst and sauerkraut. "Having German in the ITV room was SEHR GUT! It was a really neat experience because we were able to take part in the new technology!", said freshman Erika Josson. The Latin Club also worked in the ITV room. It All Adds Up!

Seniors in Calculus comprised the prestigious Calc Club. Their motto was : "A Day Without Calculus Is Like a Day Without the Sun!" The Calc Club met fourth period everyday and tackled difficult mathematical concepts such as derivatives and integrals. Math was not the only thing that the Calc Club did. The members also decorated the room and celebrated birthdays and holidays. They even took a trip to the Harbor McDonalds! Of course, the never-ending Calc-Trig rivalry continued this year.

The Christmas decorating contest between the two classes was a highlight of the year. The Business Club once again sponsored the annual Volleyball Tournament in the fall. Proceeds went towards the club's spring trip to Cleveland. The faculty emerged the victor for the sixth year in a row. The other teams were made of the senior football players, the cheerleaders, and the cross country/golf teams. The club boasted one of the largest memberships in the school.-Kristy Josson

Academic Challenge

From 7:30 in the morning to 2:30 in the afternoon, students at Harbor High were just that—students. Their day spanned seven periods, and they were able to expand their minds through knowledge.

American History, for example, let students travel back in time and learn about events that shaped the future. Geography took students to far-off places, such as Europe and Africa! Science also helped students prepare for the future.

In Biology, dissections enabled students to get some hands-on experience. The classes also visited Walnut Beach to examine ecology in Ashtabula. Lab experiments in Chemistry demonstrated the sheer power of science. Physical education and Health classes helped students get “physical”. Freshmen and sophomores were taught how to keep themselves physically fit, emotionally sound, and mentally well.

Eyes to the Future

Three clubs at Harbor High offered students a chance to plan for the future, use their talents, and meet new people. These were the Art Club, Industrial Arts Club, and Jobs for Ohio's Graduates.

The Art Club was open to any student who took Art I, II, III, or IV. In order to finance a trip to an Art Museum, the Art Club sold spirit badges during football season with help from advisor/teacher Ann Rapose. Art work from the different classes was frequently displayed in the showcase. Harbor students also were winners at the Regional Scholastic Art Awards at YSU. Silver Key Awards went to Dan Bragg, Andy Hull, and Sarah Sass. Gold Key Winners were Sean Allds, Sarah Sass, and Sarah Taylor, who also went on to compete nationally in New York City! The Industrial Arts Club sold candy, whose proceeds allowed Mr. Ty McCunn, advisor, to buy equipment for the wood shop. The club also enjoyed their annual Christmas party and spring canoe trip. IA was formed of students in Industrial Arts and Wood Shop. JOGS was a way for students at Harbor to prepare for employment after high school. Under the advisement of Mrs. Maureen Mottley, JOGS students ran for office in the club, held a banquet, participated in local competitions, and sponsored a food drive for a needy family.

The focus of Harbor students was not just on academics and athletics. Many students actively participated in clubs and other activities as well. From the art club to the ski club, there was a place for everyone. Whether it was competing for first place with the Model U.N. team or going to see a Spanish play, everyone had a good time.

Participating in clubs gave students the opportunity to meet new people and interact with people in the community. Senior Katie Ketchum stated: "Being in clubs gave me the chance to meet the underclassmen. It's nice to get to know the people in your school regardless of their age."

Overall, being in clubs was a fun and learning experience for all involved.

Here's the News

Extra! Extra! Read All About It! The Mariner Newspaper, in its second year of publication, brought the news around the school to the HHS students every month. Special editions of the Mariner were the Christmas and Senior Issues. Under advisor Mrs. Encie Moroski and editor-in-chief Amy Driscoll, the staff learned first-hand about the field of journalism. Staffers were expected to research topics, write articles, conduct interviews, edit and revise articles, and finally type the finished articles into the computer for publication. Jorena DiMare served as assistant editor-in-chief, and Josh Smead was photographer. Kristy Josson ("Kristy the Kritic") reviewed films, while fellow staffer Amy McClintic wrote the monthly horoscopes. Harbor Happenings was "on the air" every day, bringing Harbor the news at the start of every day. Some members of the group served in front of the camera as anchors and meteorologists, while some handled the technical aspects behind the scenes. "My favorite part of Harbor Happenings is working "behind the scenes" trying to make the anchors relax and smile!" said senior Edina McCollum. "It's hard to keep a straight face when you have two people off camera making faces at you, but after a while you get used to it and figure out a way to make them laugh at you!" said head anchor Eric Watts.

T.I. and Student Council - Eyes On the Future!

Teen Institute and Student Council were two groups with remarkable school spirit. T.I., a group of teenagers against drugs and alcohol, started the new year off by adopting a family from "The Share Your Christmas" foundation. They furnished the family with food, clothes, and toys for the children. This was the second year that T.I. adopted a family. As a fundraiser, the group spread holiday cheer around Harbor by selling Christmas candy grams. Earlier this year some of the members participated in a program called "Acts II" held at Camp Koinonia in Geneva, Ohio. The unique program was established to discuss effective ways to teach elementary students about the dangers of smoking. High School students from across the county worked together in hopes of making a positive influence in younger children's lives. "Even though we were there to work, I had a great time," said Senior Jenni Edwards.

Student council did their share of spreading school spirit. The organization began the year with a "spirit" week. Students participated by wearing purple and gold, mismatching their clothes, and dressing up. The group also continued the "Secret Santa" tradition. Members showed their appreciation for the faculty's hard work by treating the staff to small gifts. "It was a general feeling that the staff appreciated the little surprises every morning," said secretary Mrs. Jane Planisek.

Student council was also active in the community. During the Thanksgiving season, the group sponsored a food drive for the Samaritan House. The Senior class alone, contributed over 500 cans. At Christmas, members went to Saybrook Elementary to read to first and second graders. The children and members truly valued the time that they spent together telling stories and playing games.

Just when you think Teen Institute and Student Council cannot get any better, they outdo themselves again. Whether it is adopting a family or reading to children, these two groups are on the right track.

Wishing the sports teams good luck with the GO HARBOR sign behind them, Jana and Gabriel also reminisce about Brazil and The Czech Republic.

Jana takes a step outside to show us her new choice in American fashion.

Row 3: Brian Mills, Nick Bodnar, Natalie Manyo, Erik Wyman, Stacy Arkkelin, Justin Umholtz, and Mike Wofford.

NEW EXPERIENCES

The A.F.S. organization started off with a boom, having approximately 24 members. The officers included 2 vice-presidents, Stacy Annick and Becky Walbridge; Secretary, Natalie Manyo; Treasurer, Allison Wilenius; and Historian, Kelly Hackathorn. Advisor Mrs. Nick stated, "We are very grateful to Jana Holla, here from Slovakia, through the Sister City Program. She has added greatly to our club this school year."

The club met on the first Wednesday of each month to discuss their activities. Also, on the second Thursday of each month they attended a luncheon, joining other clubs from Ashtabula High, Edgewood and Braden Jr. High.

The goal of the A.F.S. club is to foster understanding with our foreign exchange students and to become acquainted with them and their cultures while introducing them to ours. Jana commented, "My favorite thing about Harbor High School was being a part of the swim team." Another thought Jana shared with us was, "Even though I knew how to speak English before I came to America, there was plenty I still had to learn. You don't actually know a language until you speak it in that country."

Overall Jana and Gabriel had a good year here at good old Harbor High. Hasta Lavista!!

The Excellent and Superior award winners from the Jefferson Conference pose with the first place trophy won by Harbor.

Diligently researching for the big Kent conference, freshman Tessa White, senior Scott DeCola, and junior Valle Jarvis are cheered on by fellow junior Mike Gardner.

After having accepted their award of excellence for representing Nigeria, junior Valle Jarvis and freshman Tessa White smile happily as they head back to their seats.

Diplomatically Speaking

The Harbor Model United Nations set high standards for themselves, and once again, they were able to achieve their goals. One goal for the group was to win the Jefferson Conference in November and rebound from a tough loss last year. The club competed with other clubs from schools as close as Edgewood to schools quite a distance away, such as Southview and Avon Lake. Through careful researching, debating, and caucusing, the U.N. showed its mettle and tied with Shaker Heights for first place.

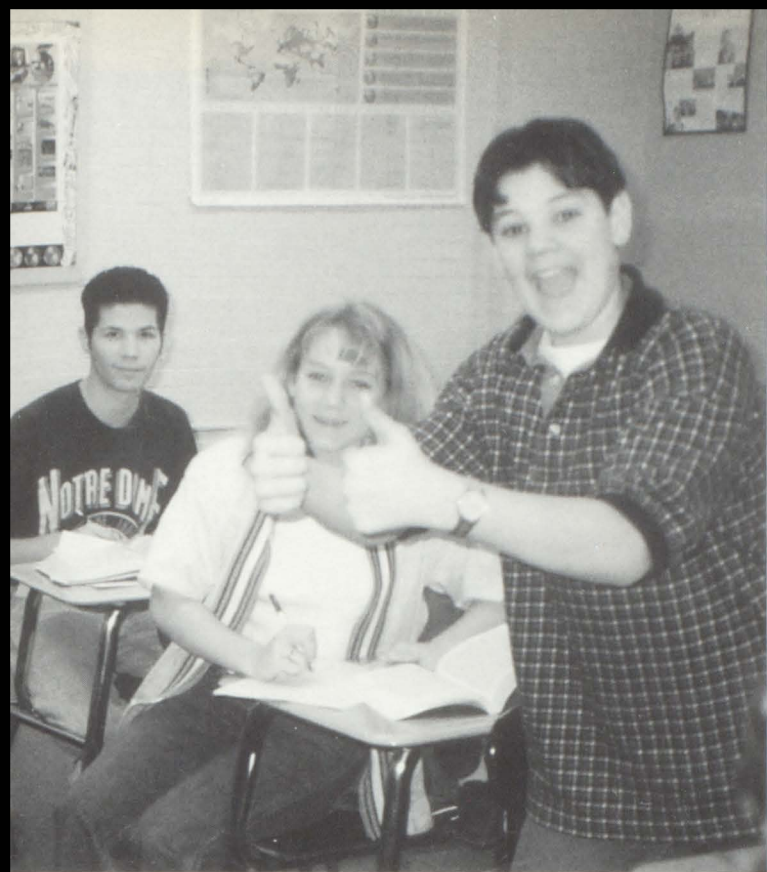

Since no New York trip was offered this year, the U.N. had to work extra hard to prepare for the big Kent Conference in March. They wrote to embassies and requested policy statements, and they also invited guest speakers into their meetings to speak to the group about pressing world affairs. For instance, former HHS English teacher Mary Hedberg addressed the U.N. about her experiences in Zaire, Africa.

The Kent conference was the final event for the group. It consisted of three days and nights of council, a catered lunch, an awards ceremony, and a delegate dance. The U.N. placed fourth among schools from Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Canada. This standing was quite an improvement from previous years.

Model U.N. was more than just a club—it gave students the world!

—Kristy Josson

The entire Harbor Model U.N. anxiously awaits the awards ceremony at the Kent Conference.

Model U.N. advisor Mrs. Nancy Franley reads to the members at a weekly Monday meeting.

Scholastic Excellence

The National Honor Society of Harbor High grew to be the largest chapter of NHS that the school had even seen. The record numbers helped the club to accomplish many things. The club donated gifts to patients in local nursing homes, participated in the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon, and gave financial gifts to the families of Ryan Turner and Shanika Isom. The group also helped to bring former Indianapolis Colt/motivational speaker Ken Johnson to speak to the students in April. The NHS conducted their annual induction ceremony at the Awards Brunch on May 18. Officers were : President Jorena DiMare, Vice President Mindy Mead, Secretary Courtney Campbell, and Treasurer Julie Blum.

The Scholastic Bowl Team competed with 7 other area schools on March 17. Unfortunately, the team lost in the first round on a technicality when the opposing team answered a question wrong and judges counted it right. The team finished 5th overall. Advisors Mr. David Kohler and Mrs. Barbara Josson hope for better luck next year. Team members were : Captain Kristy Josson, Chris Stroup, and Josh Smead. Alternates were : Mike Josson, Amy Driscoll, and Todd Matrisciano.

The Federation of Christian Athletes also worked with the NHS to bring Ken Johnson to speak to Harbor. The club sponsored many bake sales at lunch as fundraisers for the event. Several members even attended camps for specific sports in the summer. Devotionals were also held in Mr. Puchan's room every Wednesday morning before school. The five senior officers of F.C.A. were : Mindy Mead, Chuck Brown, Chad Fortney, Edina McCollum, and Ben Hecht.

-Kristy Josson

President Jorena DiMare speaks to the new inductees about the four qualities of an NHS member: service, leadership, scholarship, and character.

Giving new member Kyra Colgrove her pin and card, treasurer Julie Blum inducts new members into the NHS.

Waiting patiently, junior Lindsay Ambridge and seniors Jenn Yost and Chris Turchetta anticipate induction.

Using her persuasive selling techniques, Michelle Ocilka gets Susanna Luhta and Joe Goudy to buy Boograms.

Senior dancing queens Tysa Egleton, Mindy Mead, Courtney Campbell, Liz Bollman, and Crystal Steel get down at the disco dance.

Lisa Terry, Corrie Wallace, and Ben Hecht spread some Christmas cheer by decorating the Christmas tree donated by Senior Men.

Setting An Example

Homecoming kicked off the start of a busy year for both Senior Women and Senior Men. The chosen theme for the annual event was "Masquerade," and both organizations worked hard to decorate Washington Elementary School's gym. Cookies were provided by the Senior Women, while the Senior Men provided the punch. When asked about Homecoming, Tysa Egleton stated: "Decorating for Homecoming was great because it was a memory you can share with your friends."

During the holiday season, Senior Women did their best to spread some Christmas cheer to servicemen overseas. Many took time after school to write Christmas cards to sailors away from their families during the holidays. This annual service project was fun for all of the members. Julie Blum said: "Unfortunately, I didn't receive a response back, but it was worth taking the time to brighten up someone else's holiday."

Senior Men also continued the tradition of finding a Christmas tree for the main lobby, and Senior Women took on a new project. Giving seventh-grade English teacher Mrs. Timonere a helping hand, the girls corrected journal entries submitted by her students. This project was much appreciated by Mrs. Timonere, and the Senior Women enjoyed helping out. Liz Bollman, who participated in the project, stated: "It was interesting to see the difference between their writing and ours. It also made me realize how much work English teachers have to do."

Next Stop— Hollywood

Selling red and white Christmas carnations, freshman Brittani McNeil, sophomore Amy Coutts, and senior Amy McClintic raise funds for the school musical in March.

Happily pointing to the cast list of Carousel, seniors Kristy Josson and Heather Felt find their parts for the play, Carrie Pipperidge and Louise Bigelow.

Always cheerful, freshmen Kelly Hackathorn and Erika Josson use their thespian charm to sell flowers for the club.

Lights! Camera! Action! Who were Harbor's own rising stars? The Thespians! Whether they were selling carnations to raise money for the play or rehearsing scenes and songs from the musical Carousel, Harbor High's Thespian Club spent most of their time in limelight! Most members were active participants of the musical. Some of the club were technicians, running cues, painting sets, working the spotlights, and changing scenery. The more visible thespians were out on stage, singing, dancing, acting, and having lots of fun.

Having to put on the musical was quite a financial burden, but the thespians sold flowers at Christmas and advertisements from local businesses for the show's program. These efforts, though exhausting and tedious at times, truly made Carousel possible.

Officers were: Heather Felt, President; David Overbey, Vice-President; Amy McClintic, Secretary; Marjorie Benjamin, Treasurer; Annie Scharf, Historian.

Helping Hands

Being an office aide was an elating experience. The activities of an office aide changed everyday, so the job was never boring. Aides ran messages, answered the telephones, and helped the secretaries. Other tasks included changing the signs around the school and showing new students the school.

Although the job could be hard work, the aides were appreciated. They were rewarded with a Christmas pizza party. "Working as an office aide, I feel, is better than sitting in study hall. You are busy doing something and having fun" said senior Lisa Sams. --Lisa Sams

Senior Melanie Williams gives the main office a little Christmas spirit.

At the Peaks

Ski Club began in the first week of January. Every Thursday for the following eight weeks members traveled to Peak-N-Peak in Climber, New York to shred the slopes. Advisor Brad Cordell and president Scott Stouffer took the responsibility of organizing the trips. With a full bus, the ride there and back was long and noisy. To pass the time, movies like Dumb and Dumber and Top Gun were shown. Once the crew arrived, they had a choice of twenty-six different slopes or the half-pipe, which was a new addition to the resort. Although the club is titled "Ski Club," about three-fourths of the members prefer snowboarding. Sophomore Adam Gecking described snowboarding, "It is a challenging sport that gives you a phat adrenaline rush."

--Jared Ford

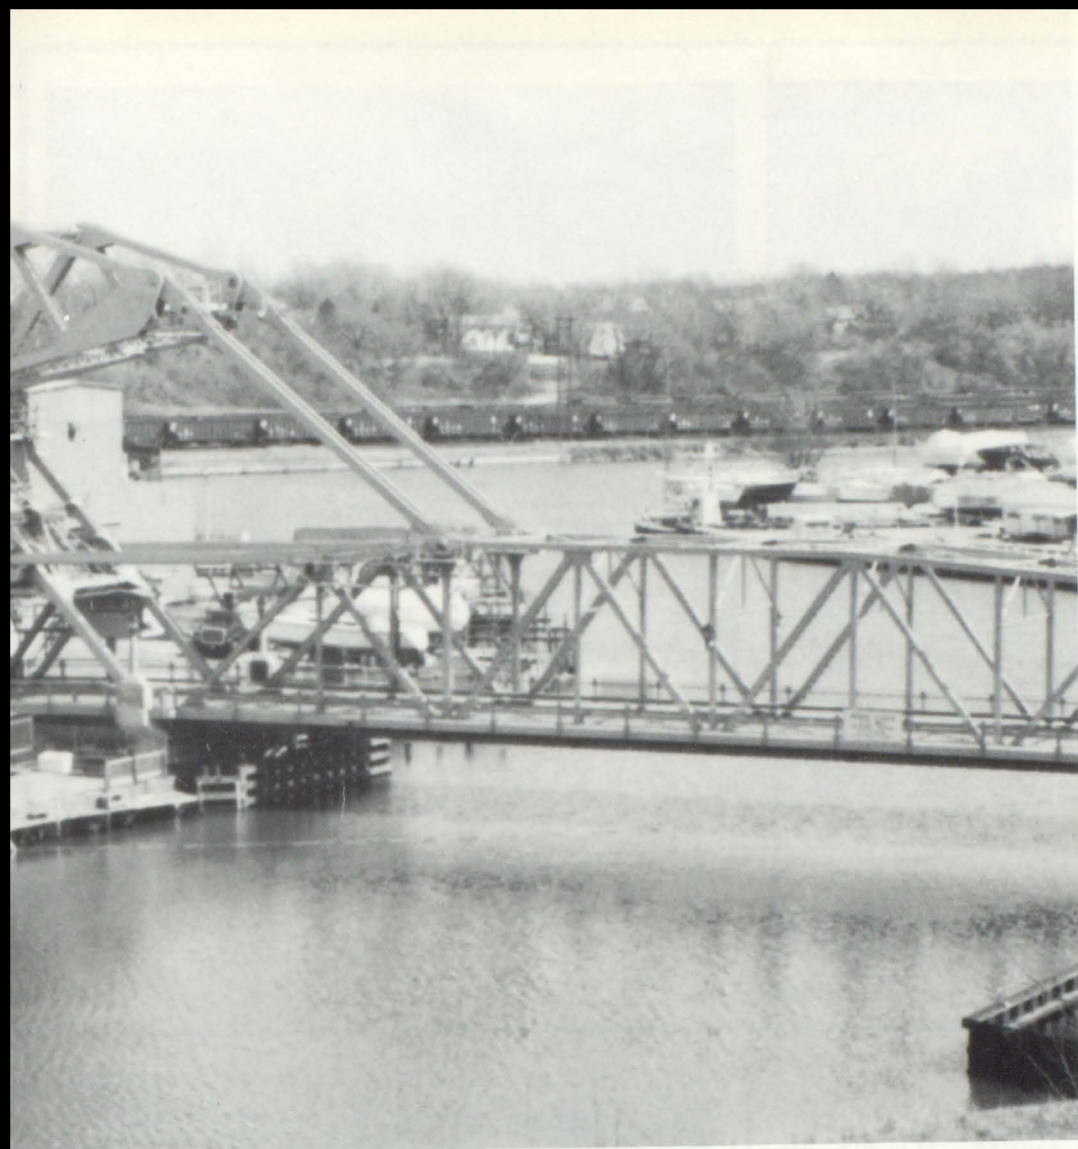

In the Public Eye

Many students at Harbor were involved in activities that far surpassed the seven hour school day. Jobs at the Ashtabula mall were a popular thing for students in the community. Some students were involved in bands and participated in Ashtabula's soccer league. These outside activities continue to be important to the students and the community. We are grateful to this community for the support they have given Harbor High School. Businesses continually support the yearbook by purchasing advertisements. Therefore; we encourage those who read our yearbook to support those businesses.

Getting Some “Shut -Eye”!

As the seniors depart for bigger and better places, we must all stop and think about how Harbor shaped each of our lives.

We will remember the first day we came to Harbor and how anxious and frightened we all were. We will remember Homecoming and Prom. We will remember Class Tournaments and the unity and teamwork they inspired.

We will look back and think of the classes we took, the teachers who helped prepare us for the future, and the assignments that challenged us all.

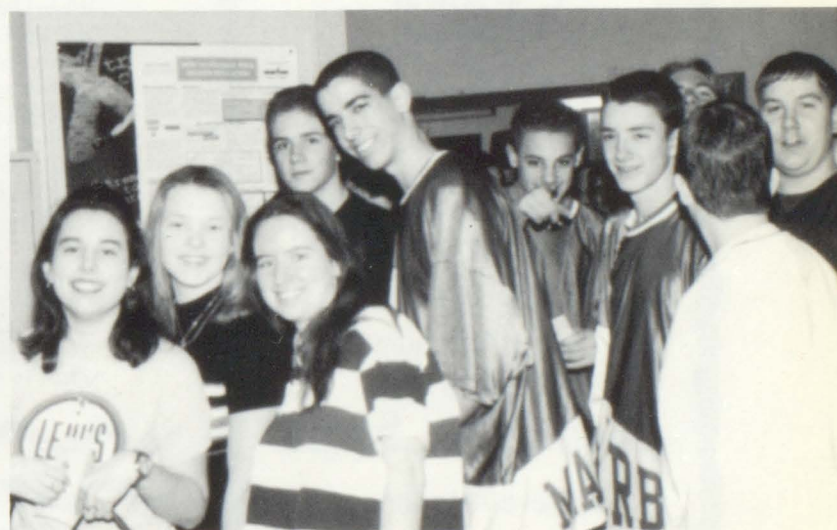

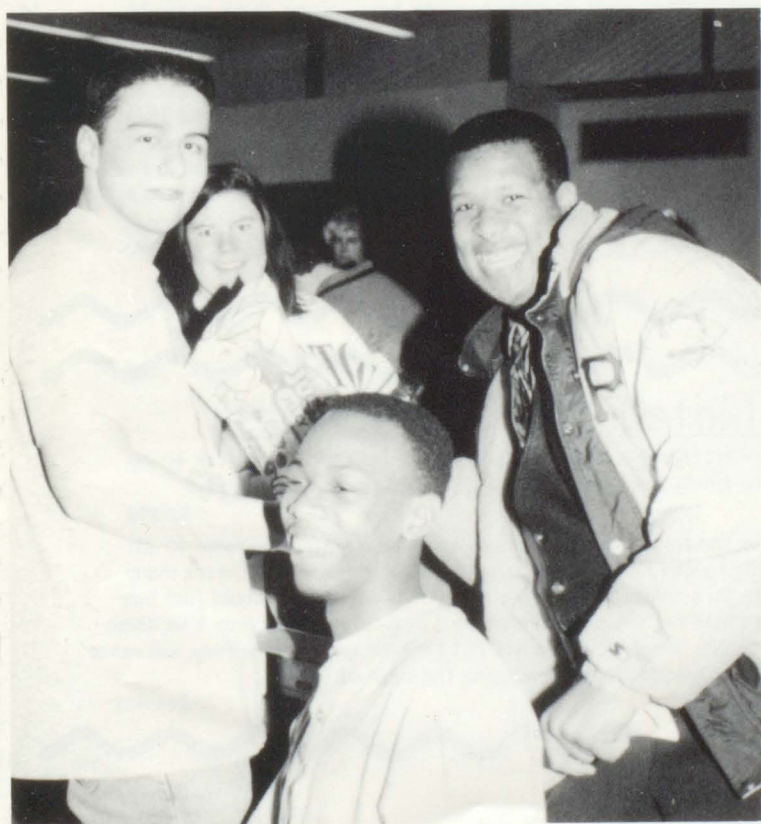

Good-bye, Harbor. Thanks for the memories.

—Kristy Josson

Attempting to cure pre-show jitters, freshman Tessa White and seniors Scott DeCola and Keri Alleman pose on the balcony.

Helping raise funds for the choir, freshman Chad Chorba, junior Sandi Werman, and seniors David Overbey and Brandon Taylor take a time out from bagging jelly beans.

Hamming it up, senior leads Kristy Josson and Michelle Ocilka giggle and rehearse a scene from Carousel.

Various freshman and seniors group together before entering the lunch room.

During a lighter moment in Psychology, students clown around after class.

"More Than Meets The Eye," the 1997 Mariner was printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks in Shawnee Mission, Kansas. Press run was 300 copies for volume 85. Mark Potteiger served as company representative. Mrs. Jane Planisek advised the publication. The cover and theme were voted on after several brainstorming sessions in fifth period yearbook class. The whirlpool grained, smokey blue cover was stamped with spectra foil and printed in ivory silk screen paint. The text paper is 80 bound bordeaux. Full color pictures are featured in the opening, senior superlatives, fads and fashions and musical sections.

The body type, caption type, headline types and the folio types were all done in Times Roman.

Yearbooks were sold for $30 up until 11/27, $35 until Easter break, and $40 until the end of the year. The publication was financed by $4,100 in advertising sales. The staff sold valentine candy grams to help defray the cost of colored pages. Staff member Katie Ketchum was top seller of ads with over $1,000 sold. Other top sellers who earned a free yearbook were Courtney Campbell and Jessica Miller. The staff would like to thank Mrs. Marianne Hornbeck for her help and understanding with the staff's occasional use of the computer lab; Mrs. Nancy Acierno for running class lists; Barbian Studios for their photography, film and developing; the many teachers who helped collect candy for our valentine candy gram sale; Mrs. Altier for the use of her tutor room; Mrs. Debra Carey, Vo-Ed yearbook advisor, for Vo-Ed pictures; Myia Welsh for her photography skills; Mrs. Encie Moroski, Mr. Warren Dillaway and Mrs. Donna Estok for use of pictures. Many thanks to selected teachers and students who wrote articles for spreads. Their names are acknowledged at the end of the articles themselves. Many thanks yearbook staff for a job well done!

A Note From The Advisor:

Whew! We did it, Mariner Yearbook staff members! With Kristi Josson at the helm and Jessica Miller's experience as assistant editor, the remaining new crew (including the advisor!) found out quickly that hard work, motivation and dedication were necessary to put together a yearbook. As our theme portrays, it was truly "More Than Met The Eye"! Kristi Josson "pulled together" loose ends on many spreads. Her writing abilities would shine through in tough moments. Jessica Miller worked diligently to complete the book at the end of the year. A special "Thank you" to Katie Ketchum, who did an outstanding job in ad sales. Her positive attitude was an asset. Liz Bollman worked well with fellow staff members on the IBM compatible computer to create excellent spreads. Her positive attitude was sincerely appreciated. The Christmas luncheon at Hulberts, Spring Break jaunt to Harbor Dairy Queen, and the end-of-the-year lunch at Caruso's, gave the group a deserved break. Again thank you staff for your hard work to create another Great Mariner Yearbook!

A Note From The Editors:

Thanks fellow staffers! A special thank you to Jess and Kacee for giving extra time to finish the book, which DID help me retain my sanity!

As asst. editor for the second year, many things were just the same. Kristi and I basically taught how to make a yearbook. Although there were many hard struggles throughout the year, we all made it through. I would just like to thank the staff for their great work and dedication. This year I've come to two conclusions; Crystal is an Elvis fan forever and ... Courtney will never get over Roberto Alomar! I wish everyone the best of luck.
